

As an avid media consumer and citizen of the US, I am deeply concerned about the state of our democracy in this country. From the most recent presidential elections, to the current war in Iraq, I put my faith in un-biasd journalism that is free to present the news to viewers whom are interested in honesty and truth to help accurately shape our opinions. It is my belief, and experience thus far, that further media consoladation will prevent myself and other Americans from receiving honest journalism, untethered by business and political interests. It is not too late to save democracy and return truth to media. I am disapointed by the result of deregulation in radio, but I am terrified of the potential that deregulation has to prevent U.S. citizens from recieving unbiased news. I am an American against current and further deregulation. Please don't allow this in my country.
